We're happy to quote OCA's synopsis of success that it recently shared with its followers, below:

“Thanks to your help, Monsanto's diabolical plan to win the hearts and minds of consumers is failing. Monsanto's profits are down. And for the first time in 20 years, the number of acres planted in GMO crops has decreased.

Nearly 40 countries have banned GMO crops.

The European Commission is under increasing pressure to reject Monsanto's request to renew its license for Roundup/glyphosate, and in the U.S., more than half a million people have petitioned the EPA to do the same.

Last year, the 17 scientists on the World Health Organization's prestigious International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) panel unanimously agreed that Monsanto's Roundup is a probable human carcinogen.

This year, the grassroots food movement has blocked efforts by Monsanto and the Grocery Manufacturers Association to pass a federal law preempting Vermont's mandatory GMO labeling law. The law will take effect July 1, unless a last-ditch effort by Monsanto and Big Food stops it.

Many food companies are already labeling, or have announced plans to label their GMO ingredients. Some of those companies say they now support mandatory labeling.

It has taken nearly 20 years, but we—and that means you—have come a long way in our efforts to bring down one of the largest, most destructive, multinational corporations in the world.

But we cannot yet claim total victory. That's why we need you to get out Saturday and join the Minneapolis March Against Monsanto!

We also need you to help publicize the upcoming Monsanto Tribunal, and begin organizing the world's largest protest against Monsanto, on October 16, World Food Day."

Well said OCA! We look forward to seeing them and you out there on Saturday!

Download a media advisory template that you can personalize and send to your local newspapers to let them know about your upcoming march.

Thank you!
