H.R. 3962 infringes on Americans' individual freedoms and liberties and harms generations to come.

Bill H.R. 3962 arrived IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES
November 10, 2009.

- This bill would unconstitutionally force, by coercion, Americans to obtain only government endorsed health insurance.
- Under this bill, major authority for decisions relating to the provision of health care will be given to bureaucrats as opposed to health care providers and health care would be limited based upon conventional "best practices" standards agreed upon by these agency employees and based on population statistics instead of the wisdom of your practitioner.
- Who will pay for the start up funds of 2 trillion dollars? What about the debt we leave for our children of a purchase we did not support in the first place?
- Health seekers that use complementary and alternative medicine will have a hard time finding their preferred practitioner providing their preferred services in a government run system.
- The bill caters throughout to big drug businesses ensuring markets for large drug companies.
- The bill reduces privacy with our personal health information and medical records.

Ever since this bill was introduced there has been a stated urgency to get it passed immediately instead of discussing the issues openly and in detail with the public. The frantic process has made it virtually impossible to read all the various versions and amendments, and to track the ongoing changes of this bill and provide up to date info for consumers. In light of that, we have chosen outstanding issues that are recurring and have greatest impact on health freedoms. In fact, this bill continues the ongoing government legacy of promoting conventional drug and device based programs and ignoring freedom to choose and access natural and alternative healing methods from the practitioner of your choice which is the foundation and the heart and soul of the health freedom movement.

The above points are just some of the ways that patient choice and access to diverse options will be limited if this bill were to pass. This bill has brought people into the most important discussion of health in America. If we don't have healthy citizens, we will weaken and collapse as a country and community. If Americans and the American market place cannot produce a health care system that is workable, affordable, and that cares for people as oppose to catering to large drug and device moneys, we will weaken and collapse as a country and community. We cannot hand over our responsibility for health to our government. But we can use the power of the government to support fairness, financial reform, and an equitable marketplace for health care. This bill is forcing us all to take a good look at the role of government in our lives. And to talk about the issues and grapple with the question of "What is the best solution for America's failing health and failing health care system?" Hopefully, out of all the discussion, the peoples' wishes will prevail and we will go back to the drawing board to find creative solutions for a healthier America, that do not require the people depending on the federal government to provide a health care system based on conventional drug based medicine. And hopefully the special interests will take a back seat to the well being of the citizenry.
